Defining Your Desires

You want a person who is highly accommodating and is willing to respond by doing things in whatever manner is necessary. Rather than seeking an Step Brother who initiates action through some type of effort, your desire is a Step Brother who responds as things happen. This hard-to-find approach offers you the assurance of support however you need to tackle tasks. The ability to finish what you start, assess the options you supply, and fix the equipment around your house would make you pleased with this relationship. It's not that you're looking for a less dominant sort or prefer to call all the shots, it's more a matter of desiring a team player who doesn't have to be out front to share equally in your activities.

You'd like your Step Brother to help get consensus from others in your life and how you're all going to function cooperatively. Building bridges with other people is an important contribution for your Step Brother to provide. It would work well for you if he/she would keep notes, track results, check out possibilities, and make sure equipment is in working order, but most of all, you want someone who doesn't resist participating by doing whatever needs to be done or demand things be done a certain way.

It would be terrific if you could count on your Step Brother to interpret you to the world! You want someone who will mediate on your behalf with others when your way of doing things is at odds with theirs. You also don't want to be badgered by your Step Brother to conform to his/her methods of operation. You'd rather play the hand and have him/her follow suit. That doesn't mean your Step Brother couldn't be the one to determine the bid.
